INSCRIPTION IN THE ANCESTRAL HALL AT WISMAR, GERMANY:

"The Eternity that is gone
And the Eternity to come
Unite in your life.
Your ancestors gave you
Life and the power – to do.
Your posterity will carry on
Your desires and aspirations
And you – between the two —
Must cherish and increase
What you have received —
A worthy link in the unending chain"

LEAP YEAR

The rule for leap years is that every four years an extra day can be added in February except for this special case; every year that marks a century is NOT a leap year unless it is divisible by 400. The year 2000 will be leap year but we will have to wait until the year 2400 before another century marker year adds a 29th day to February. The century marker years of 1900 and 1800, although divisible by 4, are not evenly divisible by 400; therefore the extra day in February was not added in those years.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

November 25, 2000

Dear Members of MAGG,

"Memories are the only paradise from which we cannot be driven" These are words of the famous German writer and philosopher, Johann von Goethe. Obviously, he is referring to Adam and Eve being driven from the Garden of Eden. But our memories cannot be taken away from us.

Memories are one of the reasons that we are into genealogy. We want to have in hand the records and life stories of our ancestors. This season of Thanksgiving and Christmas brings many happy memories of going to church, getting gifts and going to Grandma's house. One of my mother's favorite memories is riding in a sleigh to church and bells would jingle on the harness of the horses. Bells that were used only at Christmas time.

May God bless us all as we make more memories with our loved ones at this holiday and holy day season.

Sincerely,

Denis Kuennen

President

NARA – GREAT LAKES REGION RESUMES TUESDAY EVENING HOURS

The National Archives and Records Administration – Great Lakes Region has announced the resumption of Tuesday evening research hours beginning Tuesday, October 3, 2000. Tuesday evening Microfilm Reading Room hours will extend from 4:30 p.m. until 8:30 p.m. This resumption of public research time beyond regular business hours is possible because significant Archives staffing reductions in late December 1998 have since been restored. Several new Archives personnel have been trained in basic family history research sources and techniques during the past year.

This extension of research hours on Tuesday evenings currently applies solely to the Archives' Microfilm Reading Room. Reservations are strongly recommended. Space is limited, and persons arriving unexpectedly without prior reservations cannot be guaranteed the use of a microfilm reader. Make your reservations early by telephoning the Microfilm Reading Room at (773) 581-7816, extension 138, between 8 a.m. and 4:15 p.m. Monday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, or between 8 a.m. and 8:30 p.m. Tuesday. Please note that, in accordance with National Archives Reading Room rules nationwide, researchers in the Microfilm Reading Room on Tuesday evenings may be asked to return their microfilm rolls and other research materials to their proper locations 15 minutes before closing.

New Census Images Online Added

Ancestry.com has posted new images from the 1920 U.S. Federal Census, adding parts of Michigan (all but Iosco County), Massachusetts, Minnesota, and the entire state of New Mexico to the collection. For a complete list of available images, browse the 1920 census at: <http://www.ancestry.com/search/io/main.htm>

The complete 1920 collection will be posted over the next few weeks, and will initially be browseable by state, county, and township and/or enumeration district. In the meantime, Ancestry.com is creating a head-of-household index to the 1920 census that will be posted state by state as it becomes available over the next few months.

MOURNING JEWELRY

Mourning jewelry was common in the 18th and 19th centuries. During the revolution when the colonists felt the economic strain of war, jewelry of this type was frowned upon. Long after the traditional mourning period had ended, jewelry could be worn in memory of the dead. Men and women wore large beautiful gold locket sometimes decorated with tiny black and white mourning pictures. They contained figures weeping over tombs beneath willow trees or birches. Sometimes the locket looked like the person who had died. It could be watercolor on paper or on ivory. Having something that reminds one of the deceased preserves a feeling of connection and closeness that transcends death and to help accept the loss.

OBITUARY CODING

Everyone has felt the frustrations of finding an old obituary only to discover that the helpful person who clipped the article neglected to include the date and name of the newspaper. Assist future generations with this problem by encouraging your local newspaper to begin using obituary coding.

Publisher's Genealogical Coding System (PGCS), created and owned by David W. Dole, is a coding system for obituaries. For a minimum one-time charge, newspapers and other publications, which publish, obituaries are issued a license for a 7-character identifying code. This code plus 8 additional characters in standard format complete the 15 character PGCS code which is published with each obituary.

Example: PGCS code A10056N2000JA05

A Published in the United States

10056 Name of publication (Daily Tribune)

N Circulation & frequency of publication

2000JA05 Publication date of January 5, 2000

Among the organization supporting the PGCS code are the Association of Professional Genealogists, Council of Genealogy Columnists, Federation of Genealogical Societies, and the National Genealogical Society.

AN IDEA

When you go to the cemetery, take a card with your name and an e-mail address or phone number on it, as well as the words "researching this ancestor," putting the surname(s) in bold letters; have it laminated and put it on a little stake next to the headstone. Someone may come along that has information to share about the same ancestral line.

Citizenship is Granted to 32 in Marathon County

Admission to citizenship is not only a privilege but carries with it definite duties and obligations, Judge Gerald J. Boileau warned 32 newly created citizens in circuit court Friday afternoon in a final citizenship hearing for the largest group in several years.

The Judge called attention to the sacrifices now being made by Americans in all parts of the world to protect the rights that had just been conferred upon the former residents of foreign nations. He emphasized that loyalty to the country and its traditions was a requirement of good citizenship.

Eighteen former citizens of Germany, one from Austria and three from Hungary were included among the new citizens following their giving proof of loyalty despite the fact their nations are at war with the United States. Six were former citizens of Poland, two from the Netherlands and one each from Russia and Switzerland.

The new citizens and the country of their former allegiances are:

Germany: Jacob H. Hoffman, Marathon County Home and Hospital; Philipine Shadof, Milwaukee; Mary Regall, Colby route 1; Margaret Dehnel, Wausau; John M. Thomsen, town of Emmet; John P. Get Naturalization Papers

Faly Swerdlow, J. P. Jensen and Jos. Theodore Hederer, member of the Marshfield Citizens Club, were at Wisconsin Rapids, Monday where they appeared in circuit court and were granted naturalization papers.

(from Marshfield Herald, Jan. 29, 1921, part 1, page 1, col. 7.)

Marathon County

Fifteen aliens were given citizenship papers at a sitting of the circuit court held at Wausau last week and two were denied. The two denied were Carl H. Prange of Unity and Otto A. Wehlitz of Mosinee both having claimed exemptions from the army because they were not citizens of the United States.
