

Rembs & Sturm—301 South Central Avenue

For twenty-two years this establishment has been furnishing homes in our city and elsewhere, on the cash and easy payment plan and satisfying customers.

The business, which is located at 301-303 South Central Avenue, occupies two floors, 40x100 feet, and they own the building. They have a warehouse adjoining, 34x56 feet, one story.

They carry a large and complete line of furniture of all kinds, mattresses, house furnishings, also all kinds of rugs, trunks, baby carriages, etc. They also conduct a first class undertaking business.

The undertaking parlors are on the second floor, over the main store, where they carry a large stock of fine caskets as well as undertaking supplies.

The embalming room is located there, too, and they will shortly install a complete morgue. Entire charge of funerals is taken, from the preparation of the body to the interment.

The firm is composed of Louis Rembs and Jacob Sturm. The latter is a licensed embalmer and undertaker of experience and is considered one of the most efficient in his line in our city. Both members of the firm are "live wires," and we are pleased to represent them in this "Greater Marshfield Industrial" Edition. (Marshfield Times, April 19, 1916)
